

Neurotic person.Type of second.Move against people.

Do My Physics Homework

We continue to consider the types of a neurotic person, described by Karen Horney in their theory of neurosis. Get acquainted, the second type of neurotic personality

Aggressive, installation movement against people.

This type of neurotic, which is dominated by aggressive inclinations. If the subordinate type is confident that people are beautiful in nature, then aggressive type is convinced that man is a wolf. This installation can be visible immediately, and can be hidden under the mask of politeness, goodwill and partnership.

Aggressive type looks at the other and thinks: how strong is he like an opponent? Or how much will it be useful to me?. His main need

This is the domination of others. He considers this world the arena, where the struggle for survival is played, where the strongest wins. He calls it a realism and argue with him in the realities of the modern world of competition, quite difficult. But there is a nuance, neurotic aggressive type is also unilateral, as well as a neurotic slave type, only in another polarity.

This type of neurotic needs to achieve success, approval, prestige, recognition. And it is very surprised when he having received all this, he still does not feel safe and confident.

This is due to the fact that the neurotic needs are based on basic anxiety and fear. And if the subordinate type is aware of its fear and helplessness, and does not consider their disadvantages, then the aggressive type does not recognize their fear, neither in front of others, he is ashamed of him. And then, fear is supplanted, and with him and the opportunity to detect it and realize.

The neurotic aggressive type always shows itself from the point of view of strength, domination and formation. Forms of domination over others depend on the natural abilities of neurotic. It can be a direct use of force. But, if neurotic has a tendency to separation from people or a hidden need of love, it will avoid direct dominance.

The main thing is the life of this neurotic

Survival, success and subordination of others. He is experiencing a strong need to exploit, deceive and use.

Its installation: What can I have from this? Money, ideas, prestige, dating?

Neurotic is convinced that everyone is so acting, so it is necessary to do everything faster and more efficient to not be a fool.

In relations, it is important for him to have a partner or friend who will strengthen his social position - with its beauty, money, connections or success. Love in relations for him plays a small role. It is generally little worried about others. His motto: Always save your skin so as not to look a fool. Most of all, he is proud of his power, will and perseverance.

Aggressive type badly tolerates losses, unlike the subordinate type, which will hardly transfers winnings. Aggressive type at any cost seeks to victory, he considers himself a good fighter, is not afraid to enter the battle, in a dispute, to competition. If the slave type is constantly takes guilty, the aggressive always accuses others, regardless of the real state of affairs. To recognize the mistake for him is unbearable, it is equivalent to recognizing his weakness and nonsense, and this can undermine his faith in himself.

He is a very good strategist. He is able to calculate the weaknesses of his opponents, evaluate its capabilities and avoid traps. He must always be the most successful, lucky, strong, so it develops such qualities as performance and intelligence.

His mind and energy can lead him to success at work and in business. But his passion for work

This is a hoax, because He does not feel love and pleasure from work, he is expelled all the senses from his activity, as well as from life in general. This, on the one hand, helps him be very functional, and on the other hand, generates emotional infertility, and even less creativity becomes in his work.

From the side, he may seem free man - he puts the goals, achieves the desired results, expresses anger, protects himself. But in fact, he has no prohibitions than a subordinate type. They are just another plan: be friends, love, sympathize

All this he considers a waste of time. Although he can make actions outwardly appropriate to Christian virtues, but in the depths of his soul his philosophy

This is the philosophy of the jungle.

What displaces the neurotic aggressive type? Soft human feelings: love, compassion, kindness. If the subordinate type shakes its aggressive actions, then this type of neurotic is its tender feelings considers weakness. The loving attitude of others can cause nausea in it.

Problem: The more neurotic displaces its soft sides, the more aggressive and become compulsive.

Conflict neurotic aggressive type: This is a conflict between the installation of all potential enemies and its feelings of sympathy and love to others.

He finds out this conflict in the desire to recognize. When he receives recognition, on the one hand, it is a confirmation of him as a person, what he really needs, and on the other hand, he likes others and for it he can love them.

It is important to understand, any person has a subordinate, aggressive and separate part. Accordingly, installation: movement to people

Move against people

Movement from people. After all, we all need to give way to others, fight or guard themselves. In a healthy person, these installations and needs manifest themselves at the right time and consciously. A healthy person is capable of flexibility, unlike neurotic, which prevails one of the installations, ousting and suppressing others. As a rule, not in that place and not at that time.